Overview

The affordable housing and community development projects we are involved in have a tangible impact in the community. Seeing the positive changes they bring to people's lives makes our work deeply fulfilling and meaningful.

Jessica (Jess) Glynn Worthington helps structure, negotiate, and complete financing deals that result in new or revitalized community development and affordable housing facilities. She advises clients on an array of development and funding issues.

Jess handles both new build and renovation projects that use state and federal funding from tax subsidies and other programs. She particularly enjoys working on community development projects that help preserve and restore existing communities using Low-Income Housing Tax Credits (LIHTC), Historic Tax Credits (HTC) and New Market Tax Credits (NMTC), as well as bonds, government and non-profit grants, and bridge and leverage loans.

Clients appreciate her ability to craft creative solutions, as well as her up-to-date awareness of financing resources that others are using across the country. She excels at bringing the right people together, determining the various parties' objectives, and spearheading collaborative actions that move deals forward.
